Wightman, Edward King. From Antietam to Fort Fisher: The Civil War Letters of Edward King Wightman, 1862-1865. Edited by Edward G. Longacre. Rutherford, N.J.: Associated University Press, 1985.

Delay and enlistment, 23
*Enlistment motivation, 24
Departure and food, 27-28
Washington, 28-29
Slaves, 30
Water, canteen filters, 31
Newspaper, 32
McClellan, 33
Stragglers, 33
*Foraging, immorality, 34
Antietam, 34ff
*McClellan, 35
Destruction, 37
General Reno, 37
Confederate prisoners, 37
Battlefield, 38-39
Sutlers, 42-43, 46
Diarrhea, 44
*McClellan, 44-45
Bathing, washing, 46
Food, 47
Slaves, camp servants, 46
*McClellan and Lincoln, 48
Duty, routine, 49-51
Quarters, bed, 51
Meals, slaves, 52
Washing, 52-53
Horses, dogs, cats, 53-54
Religion, Sabbath, chaplains, 55-56
Hospital, 56-58
Confederate prisoners, 57
Marching, 58, 71-72
Tents, camp, 62
Knapsacks, quartermaster, 65
Burnside, 69, 75
Slaves, 73
*women, ransacking, 74
Foraging, hardtack, 75-76
Women, 76-77
Box, food, clothing, 77
Winter campaign, duty, 81-82
Quarters, huts, 84

Thanksgiving, 84-85
Food, sutlers, 85
Fredericksburg, 85ff
Battle, under fire, 90
Morale, Burnside, 95-96
*officers, and privates, 97-98
*Foraging, morals, 99
Shirkers, 99-100
Burnside, review of troops, 100-1
Mud march, 103-4
*McClellan, Hooker, Burnside, 106
Box, food, mold, 109-10
Generals, 117
Quarters, barracks, 118
Food, 119
Eating rats, 120-21
Horseracing, 121
Officer shooting, killing another officer, 125
Fraternizing, 132
Officers, 137
Draft riots, 141-42
Quarters, tents, 142-43
Charleston, 146ff
Assault, salves, 146-48
Thanksgiving, food, 158
Slaves, slaughtering cattle, 159
Reenlistment, bounty, 161
Petersburg, 175ff
Bermuda Hundred, 177ff
Cold Harbor, 187ff
U.S. Grant,191-92
Fraternizing, trading, 196
Pickets, shelling, 196-97
Deserters, 198
*corruption, politics, civil war, election,206
*Election of 1864, Lincoln, McClellan, 212
*Slave soldiers, Confederate, 215
Deserters, bounty jumpers, 215-16.
Fort Fisher, 217ff

Wightman, Edward King. From Antietam to Fort Fisher: The Civil War Letters of Edward King Wightman, 1862-1865. Edited by Edward G. Longacre. Rutherford, N.J.: Associated University Press, 1985. P. 24 Wightman, NY to his father, September 1, 1862—could have raised a company but did not have the time. "It is not only desirable that our family should have a representative in the army, but where we are so well able to furnish one, it would be beyond endurance disgraceful …for young men [to be] living peacefully and selfishly at home, while the land is rent by faction and threatened with ruin by violence, I have no hesitation in assuming to myself the right to go, for I believe myself better able to endure fatigue than any of the others, and moreover I have given so little attention to the cultivation of social relations that I have few ties to sever and my absence will scarcely be observed. No one depends upon me for support. My life has been the sedentary of the student."

Wightman, Edward King. From Antietam to Fort Fisher: The Civil War Letters of Edward King Wightman, 1862-1865. Edited by Edward G. Longacre. Rutherford, N.J.: Associated University Press, 1985. 34. Wightman, Frederick Maryland, to ? September 15, 1862 early in the morning "our rascally recruits had stolen a suck[l]ing pig from a secessionists and roasted him. 'Our boys' are like most privates in the army, disgustingly unprincipled and profane. Hardly one of them hesitates at a theft. Robbing a sutler is among them counted a meritorious deed. They eat pies and drink cider ad lib and walk off with them in their "stummets" without a thought of paying. They swear perpetually for the sake of swearing. To make matters worse officers win at the vices of the men in order to secure their favor and obtain the reputation of being good fellows."

Wightman, Edward King. From Antietam to Fort Fisher: The Civil War Letters of Edward King Wightman, 1862-1865. Edited by Edward G. Longacre. Rutherford, N.J.: Associated University Press, 1985. P. 3 Wightman, two miles from Boonesboro, to his brother,