

Coburn, J. Osborn. Hell on Belle Isle: Diary of a Civil War POW. Edited by Don Allison. Bryan, Oh.: Faded Banner Publications, 1997.

Food, 18
Marching, 26-27
Being a soldier, 33-34
Day's over, time for bed, 34-35
Race and blacks in Washington, D. C., 35
Armies strip countryside, 40
Marching, food, 42
Belle Isle prison, 45ff
Prison food, 48ff
Rumor of prisoner exchange, 48-49
Effect of hunger, 52
Guard, sold a watch, 55
Would steal from secessionists whenever the opportunity offered, 56
Sabbath, card playing, 56-57
Great demoralization caused by war, 58
Money, little food, 64
Many sick men, many will die and their families will never know, 65
Neal Dow, 66, 78
Diet, cleanliness, habits, health, 80
Prisoner escape, 80
Cold, prisoners sleeping on ground, not in tents, 81
Prisoner exposure out of doors, 85
Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, horrible conditions, 86
Dreams of woman back home, 86
Resolution, patriotism keeps a prisoner going, 87
Confederate government destitute, devoid on principle in treating prisoners, 88
Clothing, 89
United States government and Union prisoners, 89
Food, starvation, 96
Disease and hunger, 99
Rumor of prisoner exchange, 100
Wonder if Lincoln thinks of the prisoner in their wretched condition, 101
Weak from diarrhea, 106
Food, soap, 109
Hardtack, 110
Prisoner exchange, political leaders, 111
Lincoln amnesty proclamation, 114
Christmas, 114
Prisoner exchange, 117
Why does God, providence permit suffering of prisoners, 118-19
Food tasted good, 120
Diarrhea, 122-23
Food, 124-25

Selling items to get food, 125
Poor health and failing, 135-36
Prison hospital, 139ff
Death, diarrhea, 143