

Malet, William Wyndham. An Errand to the South in the Summer of 1862. London: Richard Bentley, 1863.

Charles Francis Adams and Seward, 2-3
Washington, 6-7
Mount Vernon, George Washington, 7-
Edwin Stanton, 14-16
Lincoln and Seward, 16-18
Lord Lyons, Seward, Bull Run, 23-24
Charleston, 29ff
Bell melted into cannon, 33
Railroad car, 35
Yankee marauders, 40
Officer elections, 46
Slaves loyal, 46-47
Slave religion, 49-50, 70, 74, 113-14, 142, 273-74
Yeomen, soldiers, 71-72
Division of Methodist church, 74-75
Slavery reform, marriage, 76
Church service, 80-81
Columbia, South Carolina, 87ff
Beauregard, 91-92
Close relationships between whites and slaves, reluctance to sell slaves, 116-17
Union blockading squadron, miserable look sailors, 121
Union oath, 123
Loyal slaves resist enlistment in Union navy, 126-27
Former slaves poorly fed by Yankees, 131-32
Richmond, Jefferson Davis, 152-53.
Slavery reform, 156
Hotel menus, Washington, Richmond, 158-60
Confederate artillery battery, 162-63
Confederate Congress, 164-65
Seven Days battlefields, 165-66
St. Paul's church, Richmond, Jefferson Davis, 166-67
Varina Davis, Minnegrode, Manassas, 170ff
Monitor and Merrimack, 174-76
Freed slaves want to return south, 177
Richmond, statue of Washington, 185
Captured Union flags, 186
Religion, churches in Richmond, 188-89
Food and religious publications, women, soldiers, 198
Cotton, 202-3
Flat Rock minister sermon, on Day of Thanksgiving appointed by Davis, 217-33
Mountaineers barbecue, 245
Slavery reform, 260-61
Slave letters, 265-66

Women toting items on their heads, 266-67
Foreign recognition, rebellion rather than revolution, 280-81
Soldier pay, 284
Slave and Emancipation Proclamation, 285
Slave auction, 291-92
Leonidas Polk, 295