

Eggleston, George Cary. A Rebel's Recollections. Baton Rouge: Louisiana State University Press, 1996.

1st Virginia Cavalry
Secession, states' rights, 56-57
Southerners fought for an abstract principle, 57-58
Lawyers' speeches, noisy speakers who did little in the war, 58-61
Opposition to secession, 61-64
Militia drilling, 64-65
Soldier little trained, 70
Soldiers not used to obeying order, 70-71
Democratic equality, officer elections, 71
Social rank important among Virginians in the army, 72
Lieutenant had to apologize to a private of superior social standing, 72
Training camp at Ashland, some took their meals at a hotel, 73
Some soldier sent their slaves to do duty for them, 73
Little discipline, men had only intelligence and spirit, 74
Soldiers surprised by pay and clothing allowance, boots, 74-75
Inefficient supply, little to eat right after Manassas, 76
Doubts that soldiers each thought they whip multiple Yankees, 77
Confederate unity, 78
Poor quality of conscripts, 79
Discipline and learned to trust officers, 80-81
Women's devotion to the Confederacy, 83
Women and hatred, 185-86
Defiant woman and piano, 187
Butler and a New Orleans woman, 87-88
Forrest and women, 88
Seven Day, women of Richmond, 88-89
Women and morale, 90
Confederate finance, printing money, 94-
Women signing treasury notes, 95
Prices, 96ff
Speculators, 96-97
Slave and Confederate money, 98
Blockade running and prices, 99-100
Congress and money reform, 100-101
Tax in kind, 102
City life during the war, 103-104
Thinking about the future after the war, 104
Congress and money, 105
Gambling, 106-7
Books, 107
Newspapers and prices, gold, 108-9
Jeb Stuart, drill, restless activity, fond of children, 111-25
Robert E. Lee, 126-31

G. W. Custis Lee, 131-32
Stonewall Jackson, 132-35
Richard Ewell, 135-37
General W. H. H. Walker, Fort Pulaski, 137-39
General Ripley, Fort Sumter, 139-41
Illiterate soldiers, odd character, pirate, shirkers, circus master, 142-53
Despotism of Confederate government, 154ff
Weak appointments, weak Congress, 156-57
Jefferson Davis, too much detail, petty quarrels with generals, 157
Commissary general, 158-60
People at home tried to provide the soldiers with food, 160-61
Provost marshal system in Richmond, passports, 162-68
Jefferson Davis, hostility to Johnston and Beauregard, favoritism in appointments, great opposition to Davis, 168-73
Hard to tell when cause was considered hopeless, 172
Spotsylvania Courthouse, 173
Newspapers confident up to evacuation of Richmond, 174-75
Superstitious belief in providence, 176-77
Presentiment of death, 177-78
Bibles, religious enthusiasm in the army, 177-78
Breakdown of discipline in the army, 179-80
Lawless marauders after the war, 180-82