

Marshall, Charles. An Aide-de-Camp of Lee. Edited by Frederick Maurice. Boston: Little, Brown, 1927.

Joined Robert E. Lee's staff, 3
Davis, Lee, commander in chief, 3-7
Lee and Davis conferences, 7
Politicians, foreign intervention, 9-10
Secessionists and short war, 10-11
James M. Mason, 10-11
Law on organization of regiments, Judah Benjamin, 14-15
Short-term enlistments, 25
Roanoke Island, Wise, supplies, 16-17
States' rights in the Confederacy, 17-18
Belief in King Cotton, hope for European intervention, 22-25
Lee and conscription, 30
Selection of unqualified officers, 34-37
Louis Wigfall, 37
Exemptions, overseers, selfishness of slaveholders, 39-43
Commissary department and meat, 44-45
Peninsula campaign, Johnston, Lee, 50-51
Seven Pines, Fair Oaks, 56-58
Lee's military problems, and disadvantages of slavery, 65
Concentration of forces, cries for local defense, 65-67
Lee's strategy, 67-71
Need for offensives to protect Richmond, 73
Lee saw Virginia as best place to operate, 75
Seven Days, 77ff
Lee's Headquarters, 77
Earthworks, 79-80
Jeb Stuart reconnoitering McClellan's positions, 82-83
Stonewall Jackson, 84-85
Battle orders for the Seven Days, 86-88
Lee's goal, 89-90
Need for rapid movement, Jackson, delay, 91-96
A. P. Hill, 94-95
Gaines's Mill, 97-103
Intelligence for Lee on McClellan's retreat, 105
Savage Station, Jackson, 106-7
Jackson, White Oak Swamp, Wade Hampton, 107-113
Malvern Hill, 113-116
McClellan's army should have been destroyed, lack of timely information, 117
Army of Northern Virginia name, 119
Lee worried about destination of Burnside's corps, 122
Lee takes command at Gordonsville, 124
Jeb Stuart, 125-27
Capture of Pope's letterbook, 127

Second Manassas, Bull Run campaign, Lee, Jackson, Longstreet, 128-42
Lee and Antietam campaign, defense of Lee, 144-62
Lee and Chancellorsville, 171-73
Lee and Gettysburg, 174-75
Gettysburg, 177
Lee before Gettysburg, 176-90
Lee and Gettysburg plan, 190-94
Gettysburg campaign, Ewell, Longstreet, Stuart, 195-224
Battle of Gettysburg, Lee, Longstreet, Pickett, 225-52
Appomattox, 253-80
April 8, talked of breakthrough, ate tree bark, 259
Last meal, 260
Soldiers cheering Lee, 262