

Meriwether, Elizabeth Avery. Recollections of 92 Years, 1824-1916. McLean, Va.: EPM Publications, 1994.

Chapter VIII Young black girl asked to be purchased, Memphis, Brother Tom elected to Congress, 1861. Union sentiment in Tennessee. My husband in the Confederate Army, Shiloh. Slaves hostile to Union soldiers. Federal abuse blacks. Soldiers camped in front yard. Cow, milk. Stirring Scenes. 57

Chapter IX Mrs. Hickey pursues me with a carving knife. Saloon. alcohol Interview with General Grant. Grant gives protection from the Hickey woman. How General Grant looked and behaved when he was Military Commander of Memphis. 64

Chapter X My brother a prisoner. Johnson's Island. General Sherman's soldiers' brutal behavior. Germans. My Life in danger. I flee to my laundress' cabin for protection. The Yankees confiscate my property. I appeal to General Sherman. His insulting manner. He banishes me from Memphis. A Two years pilgrimage begins In a "Rockaway" drawn by my faithful mule Adrienne. Sherman mistreated women and children, son born in Memphis 71

Chapter XI I pass the picket lines. Pistol. Officer's coat In wake of the retreating Confederates. Confederate soldiers kind to her little boys. Sterling Price. Scenes of heroism, misery, starvation. I make Minor a Confederate uniform which I still have, after nearly sixty years. A chilly reception. Biscuits. 83

Chapter XII Still retreating South with Confederacy army. Sterling Price. Need for a place for child to be born. Slaves. Confederate soldiers confident. Morale. Horrible roads. The Peppercorn family. Poor whites, women and tobacco. Starvation stares us in the face. I flee from Columbus to avoid desperate street fighting between Yankee and Confederacy cavalry. Pickensville, Christmas, 90

Chapter XIII My third son born Christmas night 1862. No doctor within 20 miles. Slave woman helps her. Santa Claus. Baby named after General Lee. What women of the South had to endure during the War. Our army has to retreat again. I follow in its wake with my three children. Tuscaloosa. Slaves fleeing to Union army. No cow's milk in all the land, but Baby Lee is nourished by the milk of his Black Mammy, my health giving way under stress of excitement and scanty food. 101

Chapter XIV overhauling the Rockaway. War prices in 1863. My husband not using tobacco. I trade his army tobacco allowance for corn and bacon. Army commissary to give out food. People would not take Confederate money. I steal corn from Dr. Drisch after he refused to sell me any. Shanties, refugees. This brings me a friend as well as food. A Mr. Whitfield very kind to soldiers' families, 109

Chapter XV I received $500 for a short story. Story was "The Refugee" But soon spend the five hundred. Flour costs $600 a barrel, sugar $30 a pound and turkey $175. Jefferson Davis' brother reads my story and comes to me. Coming of Christmas. Offers to marry me should Minor be killed in battle. Mr. Davis was eighty four years old. I declined his offer. I trade a $450 pair of satin slippers for fifteen pounds of sugar. 118

Chapter XVI Frightful hardships in Tuscaloosa. Taxes. I resolved to steal into Memphis in question of money and supplies for my suffering babies. Starving badly clad Confederate soldiers on the cars. How tricked Old Wick into giving me gold. 125

XVII Story of Old Wick continued. Greenbacks not acceptable in Tuscaloosa. I get my clothes and gold and start South in a carpenter's wagon. A dead horse filled with quinine. 134

XVIII The Yankee Censor strikes the book "Miscegenation" from the list of things I may take into Dixie. Anna Dickinson. Quinine. Northern writers urge intermarriage between whites and blacks to save the white race from deterioration. I return safe to my babies in Tuscaloosa. Demopolis. Joseph Davis. Did not think Lee would ever surrender. Visits poor white Peppercorns. Hatred at the end of the war. End of the war. 140