

Gay, Mary A. H. Life in Dixie During the War. 1863-1864-1865. Atlanta: Constitution Job Office, 1892.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS, slavery, agitators, 9
Chapter I. — The Magnolia Cadets, N. H. R. Dawson of Selma, 17
Chapter II. — The War Record of DeKalb County, companies, officers, soldiers, the dead, 22
Chapter III. — Labors of Love — Musical — Decatur 36
Chapter IV. — Labors of Love — Knitting and Sewing, and Writing Letters to “Our Soldiers” poetry 42
Chapter V. — The Third Maryland Artillery — Some Old Songs 48
Chapter VI. — A Daring and Unique Chase — The Capture and Re-capture of the Railroad
Engine, “The General” 52
Chapter VII. — Coming Home from Camp Chase — Decatur Depot, slave, The Faithful
Servant’s Gift — A Glimpse of Confederate Braves 58
Chapter VIII. — Some Social Features — Morgan’s Men Rendezvous at Decatur — Waddell’s
Artillery — Visits from the Texans — Surgeon Haynie and His Song 72
Chapter IX. — Thomie’s Second Home Coming — He Leaves for the Front — His Christian Labors in Camp — revivals, He Describes the Battle of New Hope Church — The Great Revival in Johnston’s Army 77
Chapter X. — A Visit to Dalton — The Fidelity of an Old-time Slave 94
Chapter XI. — A Perilous Trust, mail, letters, 104
Chapter XII. — A Scene in an Atlanta Confederate Hospital 108
Chapter XIII. — Concealing Confederate Clothing — Valuables Carried to Atlanta — Wheeler
Cavalry-- Toby Taken 113
Chapter XIV. — The Advance Guard of the Yankee Army — I am Ordered Out — A Noble
Federal 124
Chapter XV. — The Battle of the 22d of July, 1864 — The Death of Toby 135
Chapter XVI. — Everett’s Desertion, Sherman’s army in Decatur, 146
Chapter XVII. — A Visit to Confederate Lines — A Narrow Escape — My Return — The Fall of Atlanta 156
Chapter XVIII. — food, The Ten Day’s Armistice — Going Out with the Confederate Clothes — Scenes at Atlanta, and at Lovejoy’s Station — The Visit to Granbury’s Brigade — The Last Interview with Thomie 168
Chapter XIX. — The Return Home — From Jonesboro via Augusta — Scenes and Incidents by the Way — The Lonely Journey from Stone Mountain to Decatur 195
Chapter XX. — On the Verge of Starvation — A Worn-out Army Horse is Found — Uncle
Mack Makes a Wagon — I Make a Unique Trip — Starvation is Warded Off — Dangers and Scenes by the Way 207
Chapter XXI. — A Second Trip for Supplies — Gathering
“Fodder” from a Cane-brake, as a Preliminary — The Lonely Journey — Changing Yankee’s
Name — prices paid, I Meet the Federal Raiders 226
Chapter XXII. — News from the Absent Brother — He Marches into Tennessee with Hood — Extracts from His Letters written on the Way — graveyard, Two Ears of Parched Corn — The Night Burial of a Soldier 243
Chapter XXIII. — An Incident of the War — Related to the Writer by Hon. Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, Joseph Johnston, hymn singing, 251

Chapter XXIV. — Picking up Minie Balls Around Atlanta —Exchanging Them for Bread 255

Chapter XXV. — The Decatur Women’s Struggle for Bread — Sweet Singing in Hard Places — Pleasant Visitors — I Make a Trip to Alabama — The News of My Brother’s Death 260

Chapter XXVI. — My Mother’s Death — Rev. John S. Wilson Performs the Funeral Service 274

Chapter XXVII. — A Reminiscence, slave mother and children, 281

Chapter XXVIII. — How the Decatur Women Kept Up the Sabbath School 289

Chapter XXIX. — Postal Affairs — The Postmaster, Hiram J. Williams — A Life that was a Reality, but Reads like a Romance 298

Chapter XXX. — The Tragic Death of Sallie Durham — A Sketch of the Durham Family 302

Chapter XXXI. — The Death of Melville Clark 310

Chapter XXXII. — The Morton Family — Incidents Thrilling and Affecting, Yankees, Wheeler Cavalry, 313

Chapter XXXIII. — Hon. Joseph E. Brown’s Pikes and Guns 319

Chapter XXXIV. — The Pursuit and Capture of the Andrews Raiders 325

Confederate Love Song 349

Conclusion 351

Appendix, Gleanings from Sherman’s Dispatches, 354-64

Sherman’s March to the Sea, 365